“ To Amy, children and grandchildren,
We extend our deepest sympathy to you all.
Marty will always be remembered as a hardworking person, enthusiastic, encouraging and caring. Working with him at Edward Jones had always been a pleasure. He would always talk about his children and how proud he is of them. He has a very kind heart, honest and always had sense of humor. We will miss him tremendously and will be remembered all the time. Thank you Marty, for being in our lives and sharing your love to us. We will miss your visit and advice to us.

We will miss his insight and guidance, and also his great sense of humor. Our sincere condolences to Amy and the Estrada family.

“ I had the privilege of getting to know Marty through Amy. I'm one of Amy's office sisters and have worked with Amy for 11 years. Through those years we have gotten to know Marty and the family. I'm going to miss the calls that I pick up when Marty calls for Amy. I'm going to miss his radio quality voice giving me tidbits of financial advice and random asks of totally random things like, "how much are one of those sheet cakes at Costco and how many will it feed?" "Should I take a coat with me today?" or "What are we having for dinner?" A typical call I pick up goes something like:

Marty: "Marty Estrada here with your daily financial advice...(he goes on to tell me something about the stock market that goes over my head).

Me: Thank you sir! What's up Marty? It's been a minute.

Marty: Well....what are we having for dinner tonight?

Me: Chicken. There's chicken in the freezer. Get it defrosted and Amy will whip something up. She should be home by 6 tonight. Actually, why don't you cook dinner???

Marty: Uhhhhh...well, I gotta go now (laughs).....Is Amy available yet? (laughs).

I'm sure they've got amazing WiFi up there Marty and I know you're reading this.

Don't worry Marty, we'll keep an eye on your girl for yah.
